Exchanging practices to recognize and validate competences of social and educational professionals

COMWORK is an international participatory research project. In each country (Italy, Spain, Portugal, Bulgaria) we analyze needs and practices in the training of professionals working with NEETS (Not in Education, Employment or Training).

Social and educational workers are key figures for many inclusion and employability policies success, with particular attention to those who are engaged in services dealing with NEET.

NEETS are nowadays important beneficiaries of the EU resources and recipients of several professional services.
